Sullivan, member of the committee for Illinois, yesterday made a preliminary survey of the quarters. They met National Chairman Norman E. Mack yesterday.

GENERAL NEWS GATHERED ALONG THE RIVER FRONT

The American barkentine Allenwilde was yesterday released from quarantine below Alexandria, and is at the Mahoney wharf, foot of South Capitol street, unloading asphalt from the Island of Trinidad. The Allenwilde came up the Potomac about nine days ago from a South American port, where the bubonic plague has prevailed for several months past. When the Marine Hospital surgeon went aboard the vessel off Alexandria the day of her arrival everybody on the ship was in good health. The vessel, however, had not been away from her loading port long enough for the disease to develop, so she was sent to anchor off Jones Point with the yellow quarantine flag at her masthead. The quarantine period having expired, the barkentine was released Thursday morning and she at once came up to this city to discharge.

The Allenwilde has about a thousand tons of the paving material in her cargo. She is the first vessel to undergo a quarantine period in the Potomac for two years or longer, as all the other vessels coming from South American ports underwent disinfection in Hampton roads before coming up the Potomac. Seven vessels with watermelons aboard from river and bay points were lying at the 11th street wharf market yesterday, and the number is being added to almost hourly. The vessels arriving here now are bringing small cargoes of the fruit and on the fleet at the wharf, it is stated, there were less than 7,000 melons. As the season progresses cargoes of from 2,000 to 3,000 melons on a vessel will not be at all uncommon, and at times there will be as high as 100,000 melons at the wharf at one time. Just now the bulk of the fruit on sale is coming from the southern part of Chesapeake bay, although there have been one or two small vessels with melons from the Potomac at the wharf. The growers of melons along the lower river are shipping a few by steamer to this city, but the crop has not yet matured enough to start moving them to market by vessel loads. The demand for the melons is excellent, and the 11th street wharf is now a busy place, as the melons are being transferred from vessels to wagons to be taken to the dealers uptown. They are selling at from $5 to $18 per hundred for the fruit, according to size and quality. The hull of the schooner Earl Biscoe of the Carter fleet, which is out on the marine railway at the Alexandria shipyard for an overhauling, is being rebuilt and the stay of the vessel on the railway is an indefinite proposition. When she was hauled out a week ago, it was expected that she would be ready to put overboard in about ten days. Examination of the hull of the vessel shows that she will have to be fitted with considerable new planking, and some of her timbers will be renewed to put the vessel in good order for active service in the fleet. The schooner Bill Nye, a well known old Chesapeake bay lumber trader, is in port at Georgetown discharging a cargo of about 100,000 feet of pine lumber from a Virginia port for the dealers here. The Nye was formerly a regular trader to this port, but for the past year or two she has been running to Baltimore. It is stated she is under charter to bring several cargoes here. The four-masted schooner Clarence H. Vanner after discharging ice at Georgetown went under the coal chutes and took aboard about 1,500 tons of the fuel for a New England port. The vessel sailed yesterday in tow of the tug Plume Smith, light, for Marlow bay to load cord wood for this city; tugboat Carroll, light, for bay point to load melons; tug W. H. Yerkes, towing schooner Dow, light, from Alexandria for Newport News to load coal for a northern port.

schooner Nelle Reed, light, for Potomac creek to load back to this city; tug Capt. Toby, with a tow of lighters for a down river point. Memoranda: Schooner James Clark is discharging a cargo of wood at the navy yard; schooners E. E. Briery, Fannie R. Bowen, R. G. Stone, Sullivan Sawin, R. W. Stevens, Margaret Thomas and Augustus Welt, ice laden, for this city and Alexandria, are in Chesapeake bay and on their way to this city; schooner A. H. Quinby has been chartered to load at Nomini for this city. The schooner Bill Nye, a well known old Chesapeake bay lumber trader, is in port at Georgetown discharging a cargo of about 100,000 feet of pine lumber from a Virginia port for the dealers here. The Nye was formerly a regular trader to this port, but for the past year or two she has been running to Baltimore. It is stated she is under charter to bring several cargoes here. MAKES ITS REPORT.Gospel Army Compiles With Order of Commissioners.

In compliance with an order issued by the Commissioners several weeks ago requiring all religious organizations engaged in holding street services and which take up collections to make a monthly report to the superintendent of police showing the amount of money collected, the Gospel Army has filed its first report with Maj. Sylvester. That these organizations report monthly their collections was ordered by the Commissioners upon the recommendation of Commissioner West, following a public hearing at the District building upon the subject. The Gospel Army report, signed by D. W. Cobb, Jr., was filed today. It showed the income to be: Open air collections, $16.98; saion collections, $28.46; donations, $63.76; total, $109.20. Expenses, total, $102.55; $6.65 balance on hand August 1, 1908. The report also included the following data: Number of girls in home at present time, 8; number of girls in home during month, 16; number of girls found employed, 9; number of beds given, 36; number of meals given women, 294; number of families helped outside home, 3; number of men given beds, 5; number of meals given men, 28.
